CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS

In the event of the death of

This booklet contains essential information.
Please read immediately.

IT IS SAID THAT DEATH AND TAXES ARE THE ONLY TWO CERTAINTIES IN LIFE!

Not surprisingly, most people don't like to contemplate their own death but that can result in those who survive them being faced with having to sort out a financial mess, at a time when this is the last thing they wish to do.

The combination of a general increase in the value of property and other assets, with the static level at which Inheritance Tax becomes payable, makes it essential to at least consider estate planning.

EVERYONE SHOULD HAVE A WILL

This does not need to be an expensive or complicated exercise but can save a great deal of time, expense and inconvenience and should ensure that your estate goes where you want it to.

If you die without a will ("intestate"), your estate could be shared between family members you may not have chosen to receive anything!

Even if you have a will, it can still be difficult for the executor to collect details of your assets and liabilities.

To make this task easier, we have prepared this booklet for you to record the essential information that is needed rapidly following a death.

Whilst the initial completion can seem a bit daunting, it will save a lot of time and anguish in the future.

Traditionally, family members or solicitors have been automatically appointed as executors of estates but have you considered appointing us? If we already act for you we will already know a lot about your financial affairs, therefore we are in an ideal position to either act as executor or assist family members in their duties.

The enclosed note briefly summarises the duties of the executor.

Whilst we cannot claim to help stave off the inevitable, we can advise on how to minimise taxes, both during your lifetime and on your death, so if you would like to discuss ways in which we can help or would like more copies of this booklet, please contact us.
